The future of care

May 21, 2020

Hello everyone,

Just a note to let you know we're excited Shared Health announced yesterday we can begin planning for outdoor visits at personal care homes: that means Misericordia Place!

That's wonderful news!

This is the information sent out by the province:

Work is underway to allow limited, outdoor visitation at personal care homes. Individual facilities are putting procedures in place and will be contacting families directly to provide details including the start date, locations and hours for visitation. Facilities are expected to have this in place by Friday, May 29. This is not a return to normal but does provide a balance between ensuring the health of residents while retaining access to social connections. Enhanced screening will occur upon arrival along with hand hygiene and physical distancing. A maximum of two visitors will be allowed at a time. Indoor visits will remain suspended for now, except for compassionate reasons.

We're fortunate Misericordia Place has ample outdoor space which will allow for social distanced visits!

We are now planning the logistics of how to make these scheduled family visits safely happen. As soon as we are prepared, we will share the details with family members and loved ones of Misericordia Place residents. Visit will begin no later than Friday, May 29.

Yours sincerely,

Jennifer Taylor, Director, Long-Term Care
